

Liberty Alert

January 14, 2010

Display with Ten Commandments Ruled Constitutional by Court of Appeals

www.LC.org

We have good news to report in an important legal battle against the ACLU!

Today in the case of ACLU v. Grayson County, the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled in favor of a public display including the Ten Commandments, on the second floor of a Leitchfield, Kentucky courthouse.

Mat Staver presented the winning oral argument on behalf of Grayson County in April 2009. The case began in 2002 when the ACLU filed a lawsuit against the county and a federal judge ruled against the display. The display is identical to the displays at issue in the ACLU's lawsuits against McCreary and Pulaski Counties in Kentucky, which Mat argued at the U.S. Supreme Court in 2005.

In 2005, this same appeals court upheld the same Ten Commandments display in Mercer County, KY, which Liberty Counsel also defended.

Since 2005, four federal courts of appeal have upheld Ten Commandments displays. Three of these four involve the same display that Liberty Counsel defended in this case. Since 2005, every federal court of appeals which has addressed Ten Commandments displays has upheld them.

In fact, the ACLU has not won a Ten Commandments case at the court of appeals level since 2005!

We do not expect the ACLU to appeal this case to the Supreme Court. The ACLU has been running from the Supreme Court since 2005 and have taken loss after loss on the Ten Commandments.

Pray that the Lord continues to bless Liberty Counsel as we continue to battle the ACLU in other cases.

Read our News Release for more details.

Read the Appeals' Court Opinion here.

Receive our Liberty Alerts via RSS

Follow us on  and

Forward this Liberty Alert to your entire e-mail list of family and friends, and encourage them to subscribe.

Liberty Counsel does not charge clients for representation, so we depend on individuals, groups and churches that care about advancing religious freedom, the sanctity of human life and the traditional family. Liberty Counsel is recognized by the IRS as a 501(c)(3) tax-exempt organization that accepts tax-deductible donations. Donate or order resources from the Liberty Counsel online store.

 Liberty Alert RSS Feed

Liberty Counsel · Post Office Box 540774, Orlando, FL 32854 · (800) 671-1776 · ©Copyright 1995-2010